EARLY PEACE IS SOUGHT IN POWER STRIKEELECTRICITY FLOWS
DESPITE WALKOUT
OF 2,000

Detroit, Oct. 18 (AP)—Electricity flowed at reported normal strength through Michigan's factory cities and rural towns today despite a strike of 2,000 power workers in an area outside Detroit inhabited by 2,000,000 persons.

Gov. Harry F. Kelly and State Labor Mediation men were pressing, however, for an early peace meeting in view of concern over the possibility of maintaining normal currents.

Members of the CIO's state utility council struck at plants of the Consumers Power Company this morning, but the management said it was keeping operations at regular levels with the help of emergency crews of supervisory workers.

Troops Stand By

Six thousand state troops, alerted by Gov. Kelly, stood by for action along with 400 state police. Kelly said the troops would be ordered into the strike scene only in event of a disorder. No untoward incidents had been reported.

The strike, called in support of a wage boost demand, followed rejection by union locals of a settlement plan drawn by a special mediation panel representing Gov. Kelly. Eleventh-hour attempts to avert the walkout had failed last night.

Detroit, which draws its electricity from other sources, was not affected. Consumers Power, however, serves virtually all the rest of the southern Michigan peninsula, including the capital of Lansing and other major cities. Gov. Kelly said he was assured by management and union that the company had facilities to operate through tonight and until tomorrow noon. He said if necessary he would call upon "state facilities" to continue operations.

Compromise Hinted

"If we are forced to do it, there is nothing for us to do but utilize what we've got to operate as well as to protect property," Kelly said, adding that he hoped for an "amicable conclusion."

The state will take no action tonight, Kelly said. He had been unsuccessful during the day in efforts to arrange a meeting at Lansing with leaders of the striking union.

John W. Gibson, special assistant to the secretary of labor, arranged to leave Washington tonight by plane for Lansing. He said he would meet tomorrow with Kelly and representatives of the union and company.

The union demanded a 30 per cent wage increase, or the approximate equivalent of 30 cents an hour. Management, which first offered 10 cents, accepted a proposal of 13 cents from the mediation panel, but this was rejected by the union.

One union negotiation source said the utility workers might be willing to settle for a 15 cents an hour increase at least on a temporary basis.

Senate Tax Cut Bill
Kept Under 5 Million

BY FRANCIS J. KELLY

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee today backed a prospective $4,780,000,000 off the nation's 1946 tax bill but held off a decision on trimming special excise taxes back to their pre-war levels next July.

The cuts so far agreed upon approach the treasury's recommendation for a maximum $5,000,000,000 reduction, although they fall short of the $5,350,000,000 reduction voted by the House.

Cuts approved so far include: Individual income taxes, $2,085,000,000.

Repeal of the excess profits tax on corporations next January 1, $2,555,000,000.

Repeal of the automobile use tax next July 1, $140,000,000.

In addition, the finance committee okayed the House action in freezing the Social Security payroll tax for another year at its present rate of 1 per cent each on employers and employees. Without the freeze the tax automatically would mount to 2½ per cent each January 1.

Chairman George (D-Ga.) said he believed the total cut could be held within the $5,000,000,000 limit recommended by Secretary of the Treasury Fred M. Vinson.

That statement cast some doubt on the possibility that wartime excise taxes on luxury and semi-luxury items, such as liquor, furs and jewelry, would be reduced to their 1942 rates next July. The House, in approving such a cut, estimated the revenue loss in the last half of 1946 at $335,000,000.

After two closed door committee sessions today, George told reporters he was confident the committee could complete the bill tomorrow, sending it to the Senate for action early next week.

Pontiac, Mich., Oct. 18 (AP)—Louis V. Thompson, wealthy automobile dealer, today offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of his estranged wife, Mrs. Lydia Thompson.

The offer came as Oakland county authorities were checking a report that Mrs. Thompson had been stabbed repeatedly with an ice pick and that her life had been threatened three weeks before her mutilated body was found in a wooded lot last Saturday.

As the husband was held without charge for further questioning, Sheriff Edward K. Thomas disclosed he had asked Detroit police to apprehend a new witness. He said that if statements of this witness corroborate information already in his hands, "we will be a long way toward the solution of this case."

Prosecutor Donald C. Noggle said the story of threats and assaults with an ice pick was given him by H. W. Baker, a carpenter who claimed he had done work for Mrs. Thompson at her palatial home near here and at the laundry she operated in Highland Park, adjacent to her husband's place of business.

He said Baker quoted the victim as saying "I was struck with an ice pick several times, about three weeks ago." Mrs. Thompson named her assailant and Baker gave him the name, Noggle said. The prosecutor asserted, however, that "We need further verification of the report before we can act on it."

CHILDREN FACE DEATH

Stockholm, Oct. 18 (AP)—Count Folke Bernadotte, chairman of the Swedish Red Cross, today quoted an American military surgeon in Berlin as saying 50 per cent of German children under two years of age will die this winter from lack of food and shelter.

JOINT ARMED FORCE ASKED
BY MARSHALLARMY-NAVY MERGER
PROPOSED TO CONGRESS

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall urged Congress today to merge the Army and Navy into a single, potent military force that will "command the respect of the world."

He said it must be backed by a single, "businesslike" intelligence service to keep us abreast of what other countries are doing and planning.

The only safe road to peace, the Army Chief of Staff told the Senate Military Affairs Committee, is to be so strong that nobody can "get a running start and overwhelm us."

As steps in that direction he proposed:

1. Consolidation of air, land and sea branches under a single cabinet office.
2. Passage of a law requiring the joint chief of staff to draft an over-all military program yearly for submission to the president and later approval or rejection by Congress.
3. Substitution of a single, world-wide intelligence system for the over-the-coffee-cup reports on which he said this country depended before the war.

Unity Lacking

Marshall endorsed a pending measure by Senator Hill (D-Ala.) to fuse the Army and Navy into one organization, with three coordinate branches for air, land and sea.

"The national security is a single problem and it cannot be provided for on a piecemeal basis," he declared.

The five-star general said that already the end of the war has brought "evidences of lack of unity" between the Army and Navy on major matters.

He said, for instance, the Navy had submitted to Congress a two-year plan for keeping a third of the immense wartime fleet in operation, holding a third in reserve and laying up the remainder.

The first the Army knew about it, Marshall said, was when the plan came out in the newspapers. He said the important thing is to impress the "political leaders and the professional soldiers of other nations both friendly and unfriendly, that no act of aggression against the United States, however sudden, could succeed."

Hayrack Runaway
Fatal To Motorist
Near Port Huron

Port Huron, Mich., Oct. 18 (AP)—Russell Moran, 29, is dead—the victim of a strange sequence of events.

The sequence began last night when William McLean was driving a hay wagon on US-25, four miles north of here.

An automobile driven by Mike Cassar of Detroit crashed into the rear of the wagon, upsetting the load and frightening the horses so they broke loose and raced down the highway.

Moran, driving his car in the opposite direction, hit one of the horses head-on. A hoof went through the windshield and struck Moran on the head. He was dead when removed from the wreckage.

There were other casualties, too. McLean was hurt as he was tossed from the load. Cassar was bruised and his car damaged. And the horse which killed Moran was killed itself in the crash.

Wife-Beater Gets
10-Lash Sentence

Upper Marlboro, Md., Oct. 18 (AP)—A 175-pound gas company worker convicted of beating his 93-pound wife will receive ten lashes of a whip—which the sheriff must buy—tomorrow under a sentence imposed by authority of an old Maryland law of 1892.

Lloyd O. Bushing, 30, was convicted of assaulting his wife before Circuit Judge Charles Marbury, who said he imposed the penalty because he did not want to deprive Bushing's wife and two children of his support.

Judge Marbury specified that the whipping must be carried out in private and that he did not want a "Roman holiday" made of it.

Millions In Nippon
Loot Seized; Yanks
Destroy NarcoticsFORD WILL NOT LEAVE DETROIT

Tokyo, Oct. 18 (AP)—American occupation troops continued to search the Japanese hinterland today for the remains of Nipponese war fortunes after uncovering nearly $300,000,000 worth of hidden diamonds, gold, silver and platinum.

In a house-to-house raid in Tokyo other American soldiers, working with Japanese police, collected 20 truck loads of hidden arms and ammunition.

An estimated 90 per cent of the world's illegal narcotic supply was cut off abruptly by a sweeping American headquarters order which called for the destruction of many acres of opium, hashish, morphine and cocaine.

The latest and most dazzling discovery made by the occupation troops in their "Japanese treasure hunt" was the finding of $30,000,000 worth of diamonds in cheap thermos bottles in a Mitsui Trust Company safety deposit box.

The fabulous cache of 131,000 karats of diamonds was largely government owned.

Meanwhile millions of dollars worth of gold and silver was transferred from Japan's bomb-battered mint to the bank of Japan where it will be held for distribution on direction from Washington.

Newly placed behind the wheel of his grandfather's company, which is planning a $175,000,000 expansion program, young Ford said his primary aim was to get back in full production, despite some 14 shut downs by Ford supplier plants. New Fords were rolling steadily off the assembly line today during an inspection by visiting newspapermen.

Just before Ford spoke, the first of his assistants remarked the new cars to be manufactured since the war began would be shown publicly on Oct. 26. Approximately 7,000 will be available for 6,000 dealers.

Replying for himself to talk, particularly on the West Coast of starting automobile production plants in addition to several assembly plants, Ford said:

"We have no intention of moving away from Detroit. This is the home of the automobile industry. I don't care about being away from home and I don't know anyone who does."

Farm Job Training
Given In Michigan
For Ex-Servicemen

Lansing, Oct. 18 (AP)—Michigan's program for education of the returning servicemen was broadened today to include agriculture training today when the department of public instruction authorized an on-the-job training program under the G. I. bill of rights for veterans interested in farming.

Harry E. Nesman, chief of the department's agriculture education division, said that an advisory planning board of the division had approved a high school-administered adult education program consisting of 150 hours of class room and on-the-job training in agriculture practices.

He reported that the programs, which were being organized to meet the increasing demands of ex-servicemen interested in farming, would probably be set up in local communities within two or three weeks.

The training programs will be organized locally to fit the needs of the veterans of the community and will be directed by high school agriculture teachers, Nesman said.

The state department is making arrangements for the veteran to receive subsistence under the G. I. bill. The schools will not charge tuition rates unless a large enrollment calls for the establishment of a local servicemen's institute in which case they may charge a uniform rate under the G. I. bill.

Enlistments Build
Up Navy; Reserves
Out By Next Sept. 1

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—An admiral told senators today that voluntary enlistments are providing all the men required for the pastwar fleet.

Vice Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, chief of navy personnel, offered this information to the senate military affairs committee, which gave the navy a pat on the back for its demobilization program.

Earlier Denfeld had told senators that:

1. Navy discharges now are above 11,000 daily. All inductees and reserves will be released by September 1 next.
2. Every possible navy ship, including aircraft carriers and battleships, is being converted to troop transport.
3. Labor disputes at ports might delay the entire schedule for returning both army and navy veterans.
4. Much small calibre ammunition had been dumped into the Pacific to free ships for troop and other transport.

Ceiling On Butter
Going Up Nov. 8

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—The retail ceiling price on butter will be boosted five to six cents a pound Nov. 8.

Stabilization Director John C. Collet announced this today in withdrawing, effective Oct. 31, a wartime subsidy of five cents a pound paid to butter processors.

Price Administrator Chester Bowles, in a concurrent statement, expressed the opinion that the effect of the butter price increase on the cost of living will be offset by a decline in other items.

WARDS CANCELS
DUES CHECKOFF

Control Of Mail Order
Firm Given Up By
U. S. Army

Chicago, Oct. 18 (AP)—Montgomery Ward and Company announced tonight it would terminate the maintenance of membership and dues checkoffs installed by the Army during the period of government control.

These provisions, a major point during the mail order firm's dispute with its employees and the War Labor Board, will be terminated the moment the Army relinquishes control at 11:59 p. m. (EST) tonight a company statement said.

The statement, addressed to stores which were under government operation, was issued only a few hours after the Army announced it would end its nine-months operation of war properties in seven cities, with the legality of the seizure still in dispute before the supreme court.

The company, declaring no employee's wages would be reduced as a result of the policy, offered a 7½ cent hourly increase to certain Chicago employees.

To the Portland, Ore., mail order house, the statement said, a new schedule of higher wages for "employees not represented by the union" would be placed in effect immediately. Unionists also would get a new scale.

No increase was offered to stores in Detroit, Jamaica, L. I., N. Y.; San Rafael, Calif.; Denver, and the Portland retail stores, the company said. A minimum of 50 cents an hour was offered to the St. Paul, Minn., mail order house.

Wild Horse Kills
Soldier At Rodeo

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—A 27-year-old cowboy was fatally injured by a wild horse at the rodeo tonight before an audience of 15,000 in Madison Square Garden.

As several wild horses were released from their chutes for the final event of the evening's performance, one of them reared, then kicked backwards. His hoofs struck Homer Cook, of Livingston, Mont., full in the chest.

Cook was rushed to the first aid room where he was pronounced dead by Dr. Vincent Nardello. The rodeo audience was unaware of the death.

Cook, who was not a participant in the event, was standing by the chute. He was competing in the Rodeo's current tour while on furlough from the army. He is survived by his widow and three-year-old daughter.

Retired Railroad
Man Loses $3,700
For Over Quaffing

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 18 (AP)—Sherman Arntz, 71-year-old retired railroad man, who believed in carrying his savings of $3,700 on his person because "if I left it home the house probably would catch fire and my wife would grab a hat and run, leaving the money to burn," wished today he'd taken his chances.

Arntz told police he came to town Wednesday afternoon, his cash stowed in a money belt. He said he met two men, quaffed "too much to remember what happened" and was lying on a road-side when he awoke at 1:25 a. m. today with only a $20 bill and a dollar in change remaining of his fortune.

BRUTAL NAZIS
CHARGED WITH
PLOTING WARTORTURE CATALOG
LISTS MURDER OF
10,000,000

By Richard Kasischke

Berlin, Oct. 18. (AP) — Humanity's case against the bloody Hitler regime was set forth in a historic indictment today against the major German war criminals who will be tried next month in Nuremberg.

The massive, 24,000 word catalogue of Nazi tortures and persecution that claimed 10,000,000 dead was filed with the international war crimes court in Berlin. It will be presented tomorrow morning to the jailed members of the Nazi hierarchy in their cells in Nuremberg.

Specifically the indictment named 24 survivors of the Nazi governmental, industrial and military hierarchy. In addition it asked conviction as "criminal groups" of seven Nazi organizations, including leading members of the German general staff and high command.

Heading the list of 24 is Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, the No. 2 Nazi. Hitler is not charged in the indictment because of some indications that he died in the ruins of the city where his cohorts once strutted with him.

In seeking the death of Goering, Rudolf Hess, Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop and the others the Allies hope to emblazon a new principle in a future code of conduct for mankind—that conspiring to wage war is a crime against humanity.

Military Leaders Included

In addition to the general staff and the high command the other organizations named included the Gestapo, the SS (Elite Guard) troops of the Nazi party, the storm troopers, the SD or secret service Sicherheitsdienst, the German cabinet, and the leadership corps of the Nazi party.

A spokesman for the American prosecutor, Justice Robert H. Jackson, said that the general staff and high command would be considered "as one entity, with a choice representative segment specifically indicted."

Those already named in the indictment are Alfred Jodl, colonel-general and chief of the army staff; Wilhelm Keitel, field marshal and chief of the high command; Karl Doenitz, grand admiral and commander-in-chief of the German navy; Erich Raeder, grand admiral and former commander of the navy.

Indictment of the individual German general staff officers as war criminals resulted from American demands. Russia, Great Britain and France opposed the action on the grounds soldiers are responsible only for carrying out orders.

Justice Jackson insisted that aggressive warfare constituted an international crime, and finally won over two of the nations.

Ceremony Impressive

The Berlin ceremony in which the indictment was presented to the court was simple but impressive. It lasted for only an hour, and took place in the ornate chamber of the former Berlin superior court, now the Allied control building.

Standing before the two oak doors of the great white-walled chamber a court attendant in black coat and striped trousers intoned in English, French, Russian and German the word "Silence!" The entire proceedings were translated into the four languages. The doors opened, with Maj. Gen. I. T. Nikitchenko, of the Soviet Union, and his alternate, T. A. Borchkov, leading the delegation of judges.

They were followed by the French judge, Henry Dondedieu and his alternate, Robert Falco; the American Francis Biddle and his alternate, Judge John Parker; the British Lord Justice Lawrence and his alternate, Justice Norman Birkett.

Nikitchenko, presiding for the day, seated himself behind a long table, flanked on the right by the Americans and on the left by the French and British.

Facing them were the prosecutors. The British wore formal court attire of striped trousers, black coats, buttoned collars. The others wore dark street suits.

Bormann Not Located

The judges rose one by one and made their declarations:

"I solemnly declare that I will exercise my powers and duties as member of the international tribunal honorably, impartially and conscientiously."

As they finished Nikitchenko said "I hereby announce the meeting of the international tribunal is open."

All but one of the 24 defendants are in custody. The lone exception is Martin Bormann, Hitler's former deputy. If he is not apprehended, he will be tried in absentia.

Others, in addition to those named above, are Robert Ley, Nazi labor front leader; Gustav Krupp Von Bohlen Und Halbach, German industrialist; Hjalmar Horace Greeley Schacht, former Nazi economics minister and Reichsbank president; Walther Funk, former Nazi press chief; Franz Von Papen, Nazi diplomat and wartime ambassador to Turkey; Alfred Rosenberg, Nazi ideologist; Hans Frank, Nazi governor of Polish territories; Wilhelm Frick, Nazi "protector" for Bohemia and Moravia; Fritz Sauckel, elite guard and storm trooper general; Albert Speer, Nazi armaments and munitions minister; Arthur Seyss-Inquart, former Nazi chancellor of Austria; Julius Streicher, prime Nazi Jew-baiter; Hans Fritzsche, Nazi editor and propagandist; Constantin Von Neurath, former Nazi foreign minister; Baldur Von Schirach, head of the Hitler youth movement; Ernst Kaltenbrunner, Nazi chief of the security police.

No Delay Permitted

The defendants were given 30 days in which to prepare their defense. They were told that no delay would be countenanced.

The text of the 24,000 word indictment, issued simultaneously in Moscow, Paris, London and Washington, arraigns the Nazis on four counts and documents the charges in this manner:

Count One: The common plan or conspiracy to overthrow the Treaty of Versailles, re-arm Germany, acquire "Lebensraum" for the Reich at the expense of her neighbors—and do this by any means including force and aggressive war."

Count Two: Crimes against peace, in which "all the defendants with divers other persons" participated in planning and then waging wars against Poland, Britain, France, Denmark, Norway, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Yugoslavia, Greece, Russia and the United States.

Count Three: War crimes, embraced in the doctrine of total war which included violations of the laws and customs of war such as "deliberate and systematic genocide" (the extermination of racial and national groups). The indictment alleged mass murder by cities and districts in Russia, Poland and the Balkans which totaled 8,565,000 and mentioned numerous other cases wherein "thousands" died by gunfire and torture. Heavy stress is laid on the system of hostage murder employed to keep populations in check.

Count Four: Crimes against humanity in which all the defendants are accused of participating in Germany, in those countries occupied by the German armed forces after the beginning of the European war on September 1, 1939, in Austria and Czechoslovakia and Italy and on the high seas. The crimes involved, among other things, the murder and persecution of any person even suspected of being hostile to the Nazi party or its plan of European expansion.

Jews Disappear

Through the whole huge document runs the thread of premeditation—of long plotting to inflict on man the inhumanities and on peoples the war miseries that ultimately were used as means to achieve Nazi ends.

The section on crimes against humanity centers on the plan for annihilation of the Jews. The extent to which that plot succeeded is described thus:

"Of the 9,600,000 Jews who lived in the parts of Europe under Nazi domination, it is conservatively estimated that 5,700,000 have disappeared, most of them deliberately put to death by Nazi conspirators."

This annihilation of the Jews was an "official state policy," designed to implement the "master race" theory of the Nazis, says the indictment, and certain of the defendants openly avowed their intentions, as follows:

Robert Ley, leader of the German labor front and a Reichsleiter—"We swear we are not going to abandon the struggle until the last Jew in Europe has been exterminated and is actually dead."

Julius Streicher, a general of the state police and a Jew-baiter—"The sun will not shine on the nations of the earth until the last Jew is dead."

Rainbow Appears
Without Any Rain

At 4:20 p. m. and lasting until 4:55 p. m., one of the most unusual weather phenomena appeared in the northeastern sky over Escanaba Thursday. It was a rainbow of pronounced colors. This hydrometeor occurred without any noticeable rainfall. There had been rather heavy fog most of the day. Most rainbows are seen low towards the horizon but this beautiful specimen was high in the sky.

"A rainbow without rain means a beautiful, warm winter," according to one old home-made weather prognostication.

Woodard And Gonsheski First Place Winners In Potato Growers Contest

Forty-four leading potato growers of Delta county last night were presented with prize money totaling $595 as winners in the 1945 Escanaba Potato Boosters Association contest climaxed at yesterday's County Potato Show.

First place winner in the certified potato seed contest for the county was Harold Woodard of Cornell, and Phil Lippens of St. Nicholas was second.

In the tablestock division of the contest Adolph Gonsheski of Bark River placed first and Fulgenz Falkies and Sons of Cornell placed second.

Announcement of the winners was made last night at Cornell township hall at a dancing party which highlighted the Potato Show program. O. V. Thatcher of Escanaba was master of ceremonies at Cornell, and Roy Overpack, Escanaba Chamber of Commerce secretary, crowned the Potato Show queen.

IT'S QUEEN COLLEEN
Brunette Colleen Rappette of Escanaba township was named Delta county potato queen last night in a contest which was a feature of the annual county potato show. Six township queens were entered.

Escanaba was master of ceremonies at Cornell, and Roy Overpack, Escanaba Chamber of Commerce secretary, crowned the Potato Show queen.

Urges More Legumes
Although yields this year were below those of 1944 because of adverse weather conditions during the growing season, the quality of the tubers exhibited this year was "as good if not better" than last year, according to E. J. Wheeler of the Chatham experimental station, who judged the entries. The potatoes were exhibited at 614 Ludington street in Escanaba, starting at 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

The Potato Boosters Association sponsors the contest and awards prizes to the growers who follow recommended practices in potato farming. Additional points also are given for exhibiting in the show and for other contest requirements.

Wheeler was one of three speakers in the afternoon at an educational program for potato growers at the courthouse in Escanaba. The others were Dr. L. Carl Knorr, Michigan State College specialist in the control of bacterial ring rot of potatoes; and H. C. Hoffman, representative of the federal-state potato inspection service.

Potato growers were urged by Wheeler to make more use of legumes in building up the soil to withstand drought and bring better yields. Fertilizer is all right, he added, but in a dry year it may burn the seed piece and it does not help the soil hold moisture.

He commented on the success attending some experiments in irrigating potato fields, and said that in several instances the cost of the irrigating system was repaid in one year from the increased profit.

Certified Contest
Dr. Knorr talked to the growers on method for detecting the presence of ring rot, and described methods for its control. He pointed out the importance to the grower in controlling the disease, particularly the certified seed grower. He cited as an example a grower in Houghton county who lost thousands of dollars because four hills of potatoes infected with ring rot were found in his field on inspection for certification.

The speakers were introduced by E. A. Wenner, county agricultural agent, who also arranged the Potato Show program.

Winners in the Potato Boosters contest for 1945, certified division, together with their points in the contest, were announced last night as follows:

First prize $75—Harold Woodard, 1074 1/2 score; Second $50—Phil Lippens, 1047; Third $25—Louis Heynnessen, 1043; Fourth $20—Grev and Howard Knorr, 1037 1/2; Fifth $15—Clayton Ford, 1036 1/2; Sixth $10—Joseph Steff, 1029 1/2; Seventh $10—Henry Verbrigghe, 1028 1/2; and six prizes of $5 each to Clarence Sundquist, 1026 1/2; Adolph Lippens, 1012 1/2; Vincent Rappette, 998; Ted McFadden, 957 1/2; Hilding Olson, 932; Penlon Brothers, 932.

While yields per acre provide only a part of the basis for scoring in the contest, most growers and the public are interested in the figures. In the certified contest Woodard's yield was 485 bushels to the acre for high. Heynnessen was 472, Verbrigghe 410 and the others ranged down through the 300-bushel class to a low of 200.

Tablestock Winners
Following are the winners in the tablestock contest:
First prize $75—Adolph Gonsheski, 1000 1/2 score; Second $50—

Fulgenz Falkies and Sons, 993; Third $25—Anthony Skrobiak 980; Fourth $20—Birger Olin, 976 1/2; Fifth $15—Rene Verbrigghe, 976; and nine at $10 each—Emil DeBacker, 966 1/2; A. C. Nielson, 959; Jules Cafmeyer, 954 1/2; Paul Porath, 943; Isaac Hagman, 941 1/2; George Larson, 935 1/2; Gust Porath, 932 1/2; John Moser and Clarence Anderson, tied at 932; and the following 17 at $5 each—Schire Brothers and Marcel Jodocy, each 927 1/2; Leo Gareau, 926 1/2; Jules DePuydt, 920 3/4; Walter Solis, 911 1/2; Jules Van Damme, 896 1/2; Clarence Dittich, 888 1/2; Victor DeGrand, 886; Walter Marcella, 880 1/2; Constant Cafmeyer, 836; Octave Carignan, 831; Charles Wick, 821 1/2; Bert Steingraber, 809; Ed Bergman, 802; Alex Johnson, 798; Ebrath Peterson, 670; Matt Ledvina, 618 1/2.

There was but one 500-bushel grower in the county this year and he was Jules Van Damme of St. Nicholas, who was a contestant in the tablestock contest. Van Damme's yield was exactly 500 bushels to the acre.

Others in the 400-bushel class were Fulgenz Falkies with 476; Adolph Gonsheski with 436; Emil DeBacker (last year state champ with 715 bushels to the acre) with 425; Jules DePuydt, 409; Victor DeGrand, 400. Eleven other tablestock growers were in the 300 bushel class.

U. S. Aims in Germany

THE official directive of the U. S. government to General Eisenhower for the occupation of Germany has now been made public after six months of secrecy and it fails to reveal any surprises. The pattern for the occupation of Germany was laid down in the Potsdam declaration, which was made public at that time, and the directives to Gen. Eisenhower merely followed that pattern.

Why the directives to Eisenhower have been held in secrecy for six months is difficult to understand. Obviously the secrecy accomplished no good purpose but it did serve to create suspicion that the American occupation objectives in Germany were not entirely along the pattern established by the Potsdam declaration.

Broadly, the objectives of the occupation forces in Germany are to destroy all vestiges of Nazism, to disarm Germany and render her impotent to launch another war of aggression, to apprehend and punish war criminals and to prepare for an eventual reconstruction of Germany along democratic lines. All of these aims, of course, were contained in the Potsdam declaration.

These are, theoretically, the aims of all of the occupation forces in Germany, including the United States, Britain, France and Russia. The methods in attaining these objectives, however, differ in the various zones of occupation. This is the result of lack of unity in the Allied control council.

Russia, for instance, in the Soviet zone of Eastern Germany is grabbing everything that could possibly be utilized in the industrial development of Russia, going far beyond the Potsdam agreements in this respect.

Parking Lots Needed

WITH gasoline rationing ended, Escanaba merchants observe that prewar parking problems have returned to the Ludington street business district.

The parking situation was the topic of considerable discussion at a recent meeting of retailers, at which various suggestions were offered for easing automobile congestion during the busy shopping periods. Parking meters were considered from all angles, but some merchants think the problem can be solved satisfactorily by the establishment of additional parking lots.

There are number of vacant lots that could be utilized by store owners and employees so there would be more parking room on Ludington street for visiting shoppers. If this does not take care of the matter, there are a number of ramshackle houses that might be acquired and torn down to provide additional parking space. In some cities, merchants have formed a block group and each contributed their share of funds to purchase such property. In other communities, the local government has taken care of the matter.

If Escanaba is to grow as a retail shopping center, adequate parking space, conveniently located, must be provided to encourage out-of-town shoppers to trade here.

Our Surplus Ships

AMERICAN operators of shipping lines are, to quote one of them, "shocked and alarmed" at Reconversion Director Snyder's recommendations for disposing of surplus government-owned merchant ships. Their concern seems justified.

In a letter to Chairman Bailey of the Senate Commerce Committee, Mr. Snyder asked that the pending ship sales will be amended to allow foreign competitors equal opportunity with American lines for purchases and trade-ins. He also asked that foreigners be permitted to charter American vessels.

Mr. Snyder's motives are undoubtedly sound. He defends his proposals by saying: "We live in a world in which our own safety and prosperity are directly dependent on the maintenance of friendly relations with other countries and on their economic progress as well as our own."

That is true enough. But there is a possibility that, with Mr. Snyder's program, we might be furthering foreign economic progress at some expense to ours. For what appears to be an equal opportunity for foreign and domestic purchasers is actually an advantage to the former, since operating costs of this country's merchant marine are higher than those of any other.

Further, our "surplus" of merchant ships is more apparent than real. Much of it is in Liberty ships. These small, slow, outdated vessels could not be operated profitably by Americans in international competition, and it is unlikely that many other nations would want them.

The question then would seem to be whether we wish to ask our own shippers to compete in the open market for modern-type ships which foreign purchasers, with their low wage scales, could operate more cheaply.

The answer to that be different if we had monopolized prewar shipping. But the prewar deadweight tonnage of our merchant fleet was less than half that of Great Britain. And only about 25 per cent of our prewar foreign trade was carried in American vessels.

Our Maritime Commission does not want to monopolize the transportation of world trade. It does not want to compete for trade between foreign ports. But it does feel that American ships should carry at least 50 per cent of American trade.

Among this country's current problems is that of finding jobs for many experienced merchant seamen. This means finding cargoes for American ships. And neither jobs nor cargoes will be forthcoming if foreign competitors can offer equally fast service at less cost.

In addition to this there is the necessity of keeping an adequate merchant marine as an important part of our national defense. The beginning of the recent war found our shipping in deplorable condition. That risk should not be run again. One way of avoiding it lies in giving our shippers first choice of what they and the country need.

End of a Turncoat

THE trial of Pierre Laval may have been a travesty on the normal procedure of French justice. But can anyone believe that the crime of Laval was of a nature to demand or deserve that justice? The record of his misdeeds is written for all the world to see, in the history of the war and, more vividly, in the lives and deaths of Frenchmen who suffered through his treachery.

Laval's trial was, as Tom Wolf recently wrote from Paris, the "revolution by law" which General de Gaulle promised. It was, in the light of Laval's treachery, a fair and moderate trial, for all the emotion which his goading shrewdness called forth.

It cannot be said of Laval, as it was of Petain, that France herself was on trial. Petain was a confused, bigoted, reactionary and politically stupid old man. His mistakes reflected much of the mistaken peacetime thinking of his countrymen.

But Laval was an ambitious jackal, loyal to no one but himself, apparently despised as heartily by the Nazis whom he fawned upon as by the people whom he betrayed. His sentence is a triumph of justice, no matter how irregularly that sentence may have been reached.

FOREIGN TRADE PROSPECTS

(Wall Street Journal)

It still is true that some amongst us hold to ideas of our postwar foreign commerce that are, to put it mildly, unrealistic. An attaché of the Department of Commerce the other day told a Chicago meeting of port authorities that our exports might be "well over" $10 billion annually—and if press reports quote him correctly—that our imports might reach $6 billion a year.

How the outside world might pay for the $4 billion excess of purchases over sales to the United States is anything but clear. It may be that for a short time we shall make loans or advance credits to cover the gap, but under present and probable future world conditions we cannot expect to lend abroad freely and with reasonable expectation that the "loans" can be repaid. If we are willing that billions of American capital go abroad and remain abroad permanently, the payment of interest thereon would still pose a problem for the borrowers.

Foreigners, and particularly Britons, accuse American business men of an intention of flood the world with our commodities and manufactured wares while at the same time demanding tariff exclusion of foreign goods. These accusers are likely to cite the proceedings of the Chicago meeting as confirming their suspicions. But whatever loans or grants-in-aid our government may extend to foreign borrowers, we had better not cherish the hope that we can continuously export much and import little. In the not very long run our purchases from the outside world will have to balance with our sales thereon.

SAFE DRIVING RECORDS

(New York Times)

Three professional drivers, each handling a truck for a different bakery, for the most part in Boston's crooked and difficult streets, have just completed a record of 1,430,000 miles among them, or 62 times around the world, without denting a fender. The Liberty Mutual Insurance Company, citing these records, asked each of the drivers what the secret of their safe operation was. Here are their answers in part.

John F. Mahoney, who has driven 14 years for one concern, replied, "I stay constantly alert. I am ready to meet anything that happens ahead—in plenty of time." James B. Wells, who has covered 578,000 miles without an accident, said, "There are a lot of other drivers. I merely share our streets with them. Every street corner is dangerous. And then I am not a fast driver. That helps." Fred Fullerton, with 552,000 safe miles behind him, attributes his record to what he calls "courtesy driving." He said, "I drive as if I were the only good driver on the road, and I make plenty of allowances for the other fellow by giving him every break possible."

There is counsel here every motorist can take to heart and follow. We can cut the death and accident toll if we will approach all motoring with this intelligent attitude.

(Scrapbook Item)

Q. My English class will be grateful for one of your sane explanations on the use of "most" and "almost." Even I myself am a little vague about the words.
A. Most and almost should not be confused. Most means, "nearly all; but a very few." Almost means, "all but; nearly; a little short of."

My long-haired assistant, Dr. Etain Shrdlu, describes the misuse of "most" for "almost," as: "Harumph! A dialectal

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—When it comes to finding a remedy for our defective and deficient collective bargaining machinery, the various pressure groups in the industrial field begin pulling in different directions.

The most drastic proposal before Congress is the Ball-Burton-Hatch bill, which would put in a system of compulsory arbitration enforceable against both employers and employees. It places primary responsibility on government for orderly industrial relations.

In its present form, the bill has little or no chance of passage. This is not alone because of the opposition of labor to what has been denounced as a "straight-jacket system" that would virtually end all freedom on both sides of the industrial divide.

Neither the National Association of Manufacturers nor the U. S. Chamber of Commerce has offered any support for the B-B-H bill. Recently the NAM reaffirmed its opposition to compulsory arbitration, and the Chamber of Commerce is likewise opposed to a compulsory system.

Deeply disturbed by what seems to be a threat to our industrial stability, some well-meaning specialists in the labor field are looking for a general formula that will solve all labor ills. This search for perfection tends to obscure the possibilities for mending and improving what we already have.

—LABOR FACES TROUBLE—

Some suggestions contained in a memorandum drawn up by a government official who knows the labor-management field inside and out seems to me worthy of serious consideration. This man is not "anti-labor." But he sees the dangers labor faces if the idea gets around that the unions have adopted the public-be-damned attitude.

He suggests as one simple change an amendment to the organic act creating the department of labor, which now empowers the secretary of labor to appoint commissioners of conciliation in the interests of industrial peace. The amendment would give the secretary power in a limited number of industries—transportation, public utilities, communications and certain natural resources industries such as coal, where the union possesses a monopoly—to proclaim the existence of an emergency when a strike is threatened. Under this proclamation, both labor and management would be ordered to refrain from any strike, lockout or changes in terms and conditions of employment until the matter was referred to a special arbitration panel chosen by the secretary.

In other words, there would be compulsory arbitration for a small segment of industry on which the public welfare is directly dependent, while these powers would be rarely used, the penalties for violating them would be stiff.

The B-B-H bill has what seems to be reasonable provisions to protect the rights of the individual in a trade union. The bill provides that any new employee has a right to obtain membership in the union by paying the standard initiation fee and the standard rate of dues, and that a labor union cannot cause a man to be fired unless his expulsion from the union is preceded by written charges and a hearing.

—AIMED AT CHECK-OFF—

In the opinion of at least one specialist thoroughly familiar with the working of labor laws, the B-B-H bill attempts to meet evils growing out of the check-off and the closed shop by an unnecessarily drastic step. The bill provides that closed shop agreements will be lawful only where the union has 75 per cent of the employees as members and where the agreement is ratified by 60 per cent of all employees by secret ballot.

A sufficient check could be provided by requiring that the making of any new contract be preceded by an election designating the union as the bargaining agent and specifying that the contract could continue for only one year. This would make it unnecessary to police the internal affairs of the union.

Only congress can take action with regard to abuses growing out of the encroachment of labor on the management field. An amendment to the basic labor act could define supervisory employees who would not be eligible for unionization.

These proposals have a drastic sound today. If public opinion shifts abruptly against organized labor, as it threatens to do, they are likely to seem mild by comparison with what may come two or three years from now.

aphetic mislocation. Moreover—harumph!—we should give consideration to the fact that aphesis is a form of apharesis."

Ah, that Dr. S! True grammarian that he is, he's never happier than when he has succeeded in completely bewildering unhappy teachers, and causing innocent school kids to shudder with loathing at the very thought of English grammar. Boiled down to plain United States, his pedantic gabble simply means that we should not lop off the first syllable of "almost." For instance:

Wrong: "Most everybody were there." Right: "Almost everybody was there."

Wrong: "I am most nearly through reading the book." Right: "I have almost finished reading the book."

Wrong: "Most all the money is gone." Right: "Almost all of the money is gone."

How to use "most" correctly:

Most men are honest. Ten dollars is the most I have ever paid for a hat. She is prettier than most girls of her age. Of the three boys, he is the most honest. Most of the money has been spent.

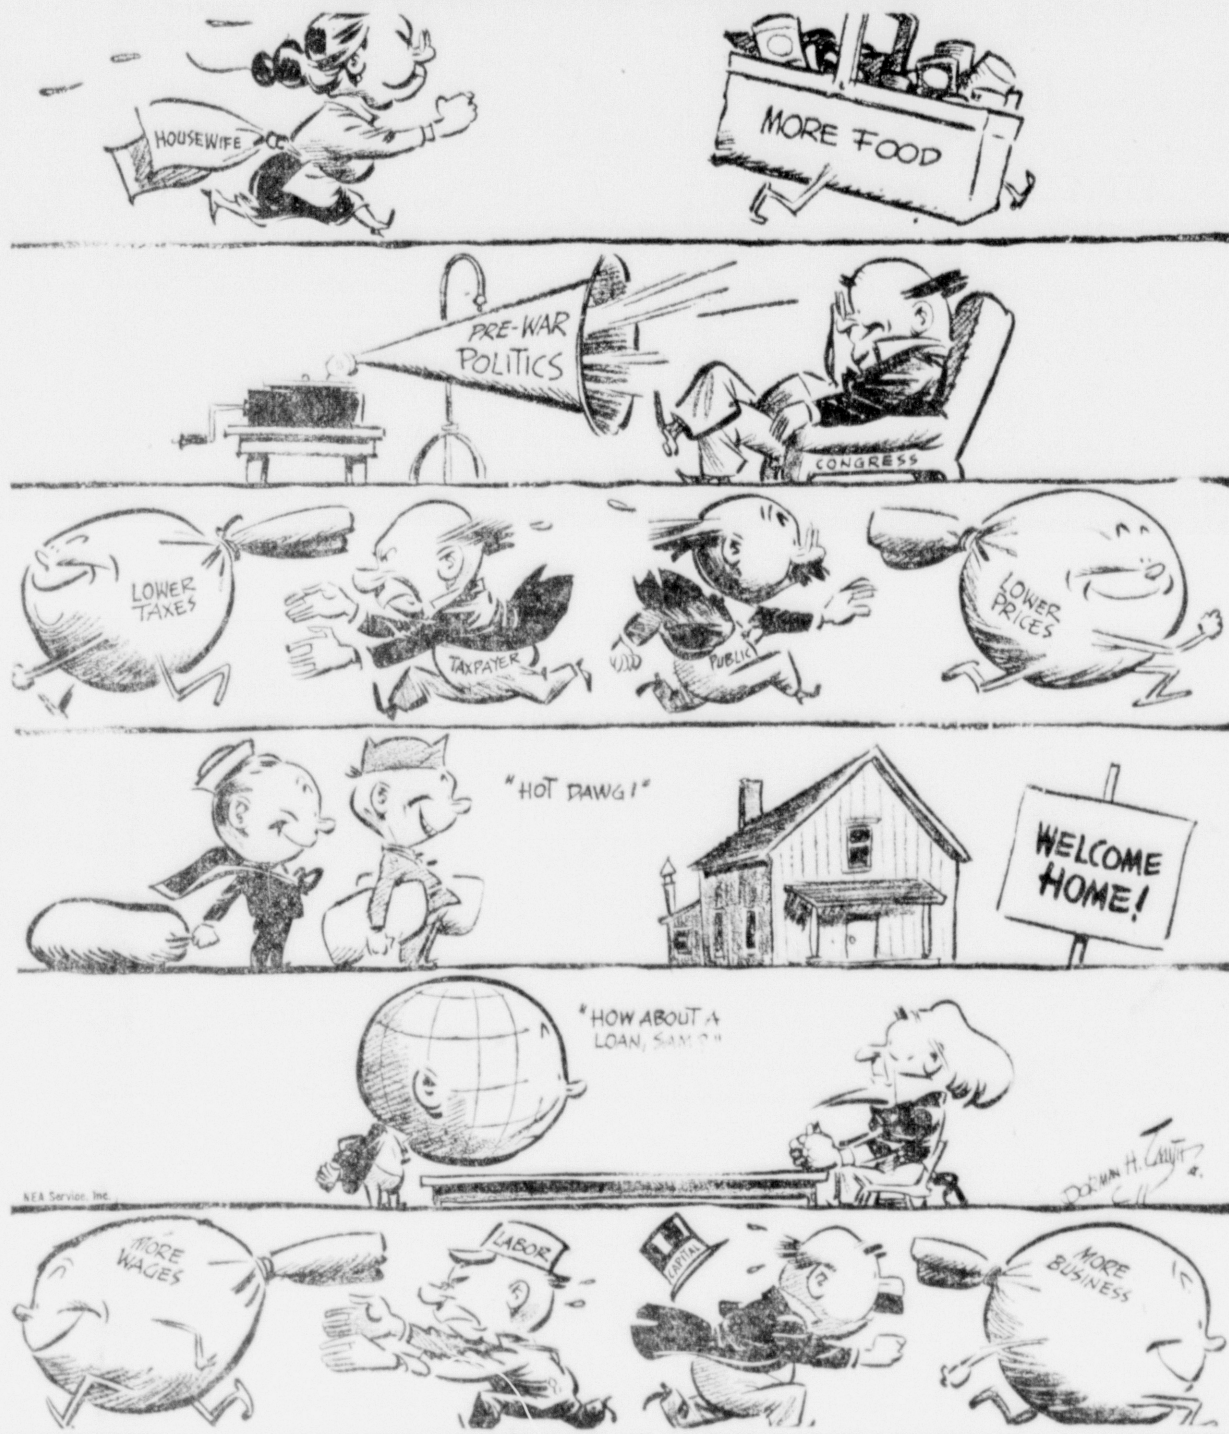

From S. N. Y., Norfolk: Which is correct, "naval officer" or "navy officer"?

Answer: Navy is not an adjective; it is a noun. Therefore: "naval officer, naval base, naval warfare." Also, in speaking of the Navy (of the United States) use a capital "N." Likewise capitalize Marine Corps, Coast Guard, Army, and Air Forces.

COLD SHIVER DEPARTMENT

—Escanaba grade school children have as part of their educational training the daily reporting to their class some bit of news gleaned from perusal of the newspaper. One of the public school teachers, overheard talking to a friend during the lunch hour, was in a fine state of agitation.

That morning many of her pupils had, with an uncanny sense for the macabre, presented information gained from a newspaper account of how two boys had unsuccessfully attempted to burn down the schoolhouse at Flat Rock. The boys had twice tried to destroy the school by fire because they didn't like the schoolhouse.

"It was news, all right," the teacher admitted to her friend, "but it made the cold shivers run up and down my back to see how the children enjoyed recounting all the horrid details."

THEY ARE ANNOYED—Sault Ste. Marie has not only lost its soldiers, it may lose Fort Brady—and now its dogs are biting its mailmen. The Sault's seven mail carriers have been bitten 26 times by dogs during the past year. Long-suffering and patient though they are, this was too much for the letter and catalog totes, and when the 26th dog bit a mail carrier last week the mail carriers became annoyed. Now the city is planning to adopt a dog control ordinance—they are going to take the teeth out of the mail carriers' legs and put them into a law.

NOSTALGIA—"I try to imagine being at home this month," writes Werner Palmquist of the U. S. Navy at San Bruno, Calif., "for now is the month of October in full color."

"I would like to join the hunter as he scouts through the splendor of our technicolored woods and fields, feel the sharp gusts of wind and hear the rustling of the leaves. Once again I'd like to watch the passing flight of geese and waves of ducks while walking through a field on a frosty morning that made the grass crunch underfoot."

"It must be wonderful at home now."

Dear Sailor Palmquist:
It is wonderful here today. The early frosts have done all of the colored-slide tricks in the book and you are missing something. But take heart. I have heard that California has a mediocre sort of scenery and a climate not too disgusting.

BUREAUCRATIC KNOW-HOW—The war is over but the Smaller War Plants Corporation, a war-born federal agency, keeps right on doing its patriotic bit.

The City of Escanaba received an insight (however flattering) into the peacetime efficiency of the Smaller War Plants Corporation the other day. The SWPC's Atlanta, Ga., technical advisor, Hayward C. Hosch wrote the City of Escanaba asking information on central heating for communities.

Escanaba, as you know, is a pioneer in this field, has ambitious plans for the future. Mr. Hosch asks the information so it "can answer queries from small industries interested in constructing central heating systems in small cities."

BRIGHTER FUTURE—A representative of a national electrical equipment manufacturer was in Escanaba the other day talking about his business, which is to brighten America's future. Of course this will also brighten the future of his company.

Your reporter was interested in the representative's comments on the future lighting of airports. He says that unlighted landing fields will be avoided like the plague in the days to come, and the community with a lighted airport will benefit greatly thereby.

"Northern Michigan's tourist trade in the years ahead will have a large clientele of air travelers," he said. "The resort section without a lighted landing field will lose a great deal of business, while the community with a lighted field will benefit."

He also had something to say about adequate lighting in schoolrooms as a sight-saving factor, cited the absence of glasses decorating the noses of Indian children out west, who go to bed at dark, seldom use their eyes for reading by artificial light. "Why, the white children often wear glasses, the Indian children seldom."

"Could that be," asked one of the local doubters, "because nobody cares whether the Indian children have glasses or not?"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—Here are the inside reasons why soldier resentment flared last week when Senators Russell and George of Georgia induced a docile secretary of war to discharge Sgt. Charles Trippi, ace football player, so he could go back to the University of Georgia.

Sergeant Trippi had exactly 41 points — 29 of them for service (all of it in the USA) and 12 points for one child. He had taken a business administration course at the University of Georgia, and typed 35 words a minute at the time he entered the service.

In the army, a clerk typist only has to write 25 words a minute to qualify, and today the chief bottleneck in discharges is clerical help. Many soldiers with 70 points or more have had to stay on in the army in order to help speed others through the line.

Despite this, football star Trippi was released on the ground that he was "surplus" under army regulation 615-365, paragraph 3B on "Discharge of Surplus Enlisted Personnel." In other words, Trippi was declared "surplus" despite the fact that he was a qualified clerk and despite the fact that clerks are badly needed at Drew Field, Fla., where he was stationed.

Actually, Drew Field has a slow record for the release of men. Men with 70 points were supposed to be discharged beginning Oct. 1, but up until Oct. 13, only one man with 70 points had gotten out. Things moved so slowly that the war department queried Drew Field as to why they weren't releasing 70-point men, and the one single, solitary 70-point man discharged before Oct. 13 enabled the field brass hats to reply that they were released men in this category.

Meanwhile, men with 70 points are still working in the Drew Field separation line pushing the discharges of other because of the shortage of clerical help, while typist Trippi, with 41 points, goes back to play football—thanks to the Secretary of War and the two Senators from Georgia.

NOTE—Hundreds of air force gunners have been taken off flying status, although gunnery is about all they have been trained for, and are now sweating through close-order drill. They, more than many others, are surplus, but they don't get out to play football. On the other hand, war department officials say that Secretary Patterson was indignant that a soldier should be kept in the army just to play football. It happens that other members of the Third Air Forces team at Drew Field were star footballers, never sent overseas, but kept in this country. The navy as well as other army camps also have built up virtual professional football teams. Secretary Patterson believes this should end.

—SECRET SERVICE IN MISSOURI—

The summer White House in Independence, Mo., is going to be empty all winter, but four secret service men have just flown to Independence to guard it. The house belongs to Mrs. Truman's family.

It should be noted that the secret service also guarded some of Roosevelt's grandchildren even when scattered in various parts of the USA. . . a secret service man also was attached to young Coolidge when he was a student at Yale. . . Mrs. Roosevelt never wanted nor had secret service men on her trips. . . All last summer, secret service men were housed in a small double garage just east of the Truman home. Now that winter is setting in, a small building will be constructed, equipped with heating, to protect the four new agents. . . deploring S.S. men expressed appreciation for hospitality and kindness afforded them by the Trumans, the Wallace-in-laws, and the townsfolk of Independence. However, they frequently referred to the President's home state as the "State of Misery."

—CAPITOL CHAFF—

President Truman refused to clear Henry Morgenthau's book, "Germany is our Problem," while Morgenthau was still in the cabinet. It contained too much dynamite. Now Morgenthau is out of the government and has published the book anyway—with the dynamite. . . Congratulations to Gen. Arthur Esterbrook of Santa Ana, Calif., for permitting his enlisted men to give him their gripes face to face and for speeding up discharges. If there were more Generals like Esterbrook, there would be more men wanting to stay in the army. . . atom-bomb scientists have adopted two grim slogans. They are: "Victory in the second World War is our last victory," and again "World War Two is either the last war or the next to the last—After that the lights of the World Will Go Out." . . President Truman is beginning to lose political support for the first time from Democrats. They want more action on both labor and foreign affairs. . . Administration leaders believe the best solution to the strike situation is the bill proposed by Senator McMahon of Connecticut making labor unions follow the same formula as the Railway Labor Act—in other words submit their dispute to a mediation board before paralyzing an industry with a strike.

USO IS PRAISED BY MAC ARTHUR

Camp Shows Valuable In Keeping Up Morale,
Says General

Expressing his personal desire for continuation of USO-Camp Shows in the Pacific theater of operations, General Douglas MacArthur has cabled a message of appreciation to all camp show entertainers who have performed for troops under his command, says a report received by A. W. Erickson from the National War Fund which finances the USO.

The cablegram sent by General MacArthur to Major General Joseph W. Byron, director of Special Services Division of the Army, and relayed to Dr. Lindsley F. Kimball, president of USO, states: "I wish to extend my personal thanks and appreciation to all personnel of USO-Camp Shows who have performed for troops under my command. These men and women who have come to this theater deserve to share the pride we feel in our victory.

"The entertainment which they provided contributed materially to the maintenance of high morale, and it is my desire that USO-Camp Shows continue its work in this theater during the occupation phase which lies ahead."

To the commendation expressed by General MacArthur, General Byron added his own evaluation of USO-Camp Shows, as follows: "I am sure you will be interested in receiving a copy of the enclosed cable from Gen. MacArthur, attesting the value of USO-Camp Shows. I should like to add my own personal thanks for the splendid job which my frequent trips overseas have given me the opportunity to observe at first hand, and to say that your contribution to the war effort has been great."

Previous to his latest commendation, General MacArthur had recorded his endorsement of USO, and one of the first things he asked when the Philippines were recaptured was that between 25 and 50 USO Clubs be set up in those islands for the benefit of American troops, said the report to Chairman Erickson.

Victory Fund Drive Success Reported In First Efforts

Two block solicitors for the Victory Fund in Escanaba's residential area have reported near-success in their efforts to attain their block quotas, and indications are the campaign will move forward rapidly, Mrs. A. W. Erickson, drive chairman for the residential area, said yesterday.

Mrs. Einar Erlandsen of 1014 North 16th street, a block solicitor in the Webster district, reported to Mrs. Fred Breitenbach, district chairman, that she had completed her work and had collected $15.10. The quota for the block was $16.

Nearly equal success was reported by Mrs. Anna Shields, 331 North 11th street, a block solicitor in the Washington district, which is headed by Mrs. William McCarthy. Mrs. Shields reported that she had collected $15 of a $16 quota and still had one call to complete.

Mae Grace LaCourse, daughter of Edmond LaCourse, of Hermansville, became the bride of Angelo St. Juliana, son of Mr. and Mrs. John St. Juliana, of Hermansville, in a beautiful autumn wedding at St. Mary's church, Hermansville, Saturday, Oct. 13, at nine o'clock. The nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Eugene Hennelly.

The altar was decorated with autumn colored chrysanthemums. During the service Mrs. Armetia St. Juliana, sister-in-law of the groom, sang "Ave Maria," with Mrs. Rudolph Larson as organist. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Edmond LaCourse.

The maid of honor was Joanne LaCourse and the bridesmaid was Verna LaCourse, sisters of the bride. The bridegroom's attendants were Sgt. Leo St. Juliana, of the Army Air Force, and Joseph St. Juliana, brothers of the groom.

The bride wore a long sleeved, fitted white satin gown, with marquisette yoke bordered with seed pearls, a full marquisette skirt and train gathered over satin. ## U. P. DAIRYMEN HOLD MEETING

Fall Outing Is Held At
Copper Harbor
On Weekend

The Upper Peninsula Dairy Manufacturers' Association representing dairies in the Upper Peninsula, held their first fall outing since the start of the war at Copper Harbor last week-end, and with representatives of the State Department of Agriculture, and the Extension Service of Michigan State College worked out a program for the improvement of the quality of milk for next year. About 40 members, including the wives of many, attended. The two day session started Saturday morning, with a banquet Saturday night at which Leonard Francke, executive secretary of the Michigan Allied Dairy Association and secretary of the Michigan Milk Dealers' Association, Senator George Gribbach, Sault Ste. Marie, Maynard Skiver, Director Bureau of Dairying, State Department of Agriculture, Lansing, Charles Stone, secretary, American Dairy Association, and George S. McIntyre, U. P. Dairy specialist, Chatham, were speakers. Mr. Francke quoted surveys showing the average profit on a quart of milk to be about 1-3 of a cent, and stated that if every day delivery and other war restricted services are again instituted, the price of milk will rise 1 1/2 to 3c per quart to the consumer. Senator Gribbach explained some of the dairy legislation that was passed by the last legislature. Charles Stone reported that Michigan farmers contributed over $58,000, last year to the dairy advertising program. This is more than twice the amount contributed in the United States in 1935. Mr. Skiver, reporting the activities of the State Dairy Inspection Service, stated that starting next spring, inspectors are going to check the temperatures of milk as it is received at processing plants. McIntyre spoke on the need of a quality milk program. The Quality Committee of the Association met with Mr. Skiver and McIntyre and worked out a list of suggested practices for quality milk production, which will be printed on cards and given to producers by the dairy plants. The suggestions included building of milk houses and cooling tanks, prompt cooling of milk to 60 degrees F., filtering through a cotton filter pad, rinsing utensils with a chlorine solution before using, washing cows' udders before milking and thoroughly cleaning milking machines after each milking.

The annual meeting of the association is to be held in Escanaba in late January or early February.

VACATION VISITMrs. Shipman Gives
Travelogue Before
Womens Club

"Vagabonding in the Gaspé Peninsula" was the theme for a very interesting travelogue presented by Mrs. Dorothy Shipman before the Manistique Women's club at its regular meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Shipman's talk was in the nature of a word picture of this charming but little known region bordering on the south banks of the St. Lawrence River and out into the Gulf of St. Lawrence. It had been her privilege last summer to travel in a small steamer in a personally conducted tour of the area, visiting fishing villages, resort areas, shrines and bird sanctuaries enroute. Her description of the many varieties of birds found in one of the bird refuges was particularly interesting.

Also included in her talk were descriptions of Toronto, Montreal and Quebec, which she visited while on her way to the Gaspé.

Also on the program was a violin duet by Nancy Cookson and George Babladelis, with Miss Margaret Johnson as accompanist.

Nine new members were added to the club's roster at the meeting. They are: Mrs. Ira Crawford, Mrs. John Vieregger, Mrs. J. R. Lowell, Mrs. Roger Smith, Mrs. John Wilde, Mrs. Ray Prime, Mrs. A. Nastoff, Mrs. Ray Opal and Mrs. F. W. Helman.

Lunch was served at the close of the meeting by the following committee: Mrs. E. R. Monroe, chairman; Mrs. Charles Slings Jr., Mrs. Kenneth Van Eyck, Mrs. Louis Hartman, Mrs. J. R. Lowell and Mrs. J. C. Quick.

Also discussed at the meeting were plans for a "Pay to Play" card party to be held at the Lakeside school on the evening of Monday, October 22, for the benefit of the War Fund drive. The party will be for the public in general with both men and women invited to be present. Prizes are being donated by various business places in the city.

FUND CAMPAIGN
IN HIGH GEARDrive Is Meeting With Good Results Say
Leaders

The Schoolcraft County Victory War Fund and Community Chest is rapidly going into high gear, says Clarence Cowman, drive chairman.

A thorough and systematic organization has been established throughout the county, covering businesses, industries, farming, lumbering and individuals.

A great deal of the success of the campaign will now depend on the individual solicitors. The work of soliciting has been divided so that each solicitor has been given a limited number of people or businesses to contact. If each solicitor will devote a few hours of his or her time, the campaign cannot fail.

Having completed coverage of all business organizations and the rural districts, the executive committee is now devoting its attention to the soliciting of the various industrial plants.

The Victory War Fund maintains an office in the Babladelis building, next to the Du Pont barber shop and solicitors may report there or to Leonard Males, treasurer of the Victory War Fund. Anyone desiring to make a personal contribution, may do so by calling at the above office.

Generous contributions have been received to date from the following: G. Harold Earle, A & P store, Stewart E. Earle, Fred Bradley, Lady Foresters, George Gierbach, Alex Creighton, M & M Sales & Service, Manistique Garage, Crawford & Holland, Lundstrom Chevrolet, Keith Bundy and Oren G. Quick, Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Nicholson and Bruce Nicholson.

Learn That There's Nothing Funny In Stealing Bicycles

Crime does not pay—even if it be the swiping of a bicycle.

Thursday morning two Manistique youths, under the stern surveillance of Sheriff John M. Hewitt, went out to a wooded spot near a lake along Highway No. 2 and showed the sheriff where they had secreted two bicycles belonging to Manistique high school students. They admitted taking these vehicles from their parking place along side of the Central Market.

The oldest one of the boys, who had just passed his seventeenth birthday, faced Judge W. G. Stephens later on in the day and admitted his error. He was fined $10 and ordered to be home every evening after 10 o'clock. His parents promised that they, personally, would see that the regulation was enforced, and Judge Stephens commended them for their willingness to cooperate.

The other youth, being under 16 years of age, will appear before Juvenile Judge John J. Hruska some time today.

There have been numerous thefts of bicycles in Manistique of late, the Police Chief Roy Anderson is serving notice that the youngsters responsible for these acts are in for a lot of trouble.

The first official journey over what was to become the Boston Post Road was made in 1672 when Governor Lovelace of New York signed, sealed and delivered to a waiting post rider a letter to Governor Winthrop of Massachusetts.

Conn Scores Decision Over Jacobs, Signs To Battle Joe Louis

CUT IN SPOILS TO BE BOOSTED

Pittsburgh Pretty Boy Wins Every Argument With Promoter Mike

BY SID FEDER
New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—Billy Conn won his first decision since leaving the army—a rich win over Promoter Mike Jacobs—today and then put his name in the contracts calling for his return match with Joe Louis next June.

The Pittsburgh pretty boy scratched his "William David Conn" across the bottom of half a dozen agreements for the fight after a two-hour session, during which he and his manager, Johnny Ray, won virtually every point they had argued about for two days.

These were some of the spoils they took back to Pittsburgh tonight:

1. Permission for Billy to appear in as many pre-fight exhibition bouts as he wants, although all turn-out figures are barred.

2. A 20 per cent cut of the gate just what Conn received for his first fight with the Bomber in 1941, when he was flattened in 13 rounds, but 2 1/2 per cent more than a challenger's usual end.

3. A 20 per cent slice of the Mike and motion picture pie. Mike is planning to pipe the television into movie houses.

4. Agreement by Jacobs to sell the expected fancy-priced television rights for this fight separately, instead of including it in the "package" Mike peddles by the year for all his promotions.

Although the champagne-and-turkey breakfasts of the Dempsey-Kearns heyday were missing, this was an old-fashioned signing, complete with photographers' bulbs, a couple of dozen sports writers, lawyers, managers and a gold-headed pen. The only guy missing, of course, was Louis, who signed last Monday—with no more argument than if he were writing a postcard.

The easiest thing to settle was Conn's promise to give Joe a return match within 90 days if he should take the crown away from Louis. With Mike seeing $3,000,000 written all over his crystal ball for this brawl, the contract for a return match was about as tough to get as having a guy agree to accept a few samples from the mint.

Changing Names For Backs Very Confusing—Martin

BY WHITNEY MARTIN
New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—Our campaign No. 13-B to have a football quarterback called a quarterback, and a right halfback called a right halfback, apparently is getting nowhere with tremendous speed and we are about reconciled to going through life in a confusion of No. 1 backs, wing-backs, blocking backs and flash-backs.

In fact, the situation is growing worse, as we recently saw a game program listing the backs as Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4, a designation quite bewildering to fans brought up on halfbacks and quarterbacks and fullbacks and who search the rule book in vain for any other nomenclature.

Fans Bewildered
To us this renaming of the backfield positions is as silly as calling Mr. Jones Mr. Smith or vice versa. Even sillier, as Mr. Jones or Mr. Smith might feel complimented to be mistaken for the other, while there is no compliment involved in calling the right halfback the No. 2 back. Or is it No. 4?

This code system of designating the backfield men leaves the average fan bewildered. The numbers are even worse than the trick names invented for the positions, as a little study will bring the conclusion that a wingback is a fellow who plays out toward a wing and a tailback is the man standing back there ostensibly to take the ball from the center.

The players on a baseball team are unofficially numbered, but this is for the convenience of the scorers and the writers do not try to palm off these numbers on the public, as the average fan would not know what we were talking about if you said Greenberg went out, 5 to 3. We have yet to see a baseball program list the positions by anything but the old-fashioned terms, or to read that Hans Wagner was the best No. 6 man the game ever saw.

If this business of calling a cow a mule spreads to other sports, basketball fans will be trying to get used to a forward being referred to as an advance man and a guard as a rumble seat or rear sentry, or all the positions might be numbered and the fans left to pick a number from 1 to 5 and try and guess where the man plays.

We may be old-fashioned on

ESKYMOS FACE TOUGHEST FIGHT

Locals Sharpen Defense Against Aerial Attack

The Eskymos football squad got out its high-powered ack-ack yesterday in preparation for the battle Saturday at Iron Mountain, at which it is expected the Mountaineers will flood the gridiron with forward passes.

There is speculation in the Iron Mountain camp that Bob Graier, hard hitting ball tater who was injured early in the season, may be back in action for the Escanaba game.

With or without Graier back in uniform, however, the Mountaineers probably will rely on their aerial game to penetrate the Escanaba defense. At any rate, Coach Ruwitch is preparing his team for such an emergency and pass defense occupied the attention of the Eskymos yesterday.

The Iron Mountain battle is shaping up as the toughest test of the season for Escanaba, not even excluding the opening game at the Soo when the Ruwitchmen had to come from behind in the closing minutes of the game to settle for a tie score.

Injury Slows Up Sinkwich Football

Colorado Springs, Colo., Oct. 18 (AP)—Fireball Frankie Sinkwich will burn up no more gridirons for the Second Air Force Superbombers this year.

Maj. Claude F. McGrath, the post's football director, announced today that torn ligaments in the former Georgia University and Detroit Lions star's left knee would keep Sinkwich out of play the rest of the year.

Whether the injury which Sinkwich suffered last Sunday in the Superbombers 20-9 defeat by El Toro Marines would affect his post gridiron career at Detroit remained unanswered. The Second Air Force public relations office said doctors at Peterson Field hospital assured that "no permanent injury was sustained."

Mexico has an estimated population of more than 19 1/2 million.

this, but we just don't like the idea of fancy names or numbers being used to designate positions. A cricket-bred Briton in this office ambled over to the baseball desk during the world series and wanted to know who was bowling for Detroit. To him the fellow who projects the ball toward the batter is the bowler, that's all, and we feel the same about football names. A halfback still is a halfback to us.

So we're going to stick to the ivy-draped names and not try to tell you army has the best No. 2 and No. 3 backs in the country, as you would wonder what positions we meant. Besides, you'd probably want to argue about it anyway.

Ballyhoo Of New Grid League Called Black Eye For Pro Football

Detroit, Oct. 18 (AP)—Terming the embryonic All-America professional football conference a "propaganda league," Owner Fred L. Mandel, Jr., of the National Football League's Detroit Lions declared today he "refused to be taken in by the new league's publicity program."

Disturbed by the running fight for postwar football services of Marine Lt. Elroy (Crazy Legs) Hirsch, former Wisconsin and Michigan collegian, Mandel said he is "issuing a warning to boys in service who are or might be Lion property that they think twice before accepting as fact claims of the new league receiving wide ballyhoo in the press."

"The history of the new league so far is one of false claims and broken promises," Mandel asserted. "It hasn't accomplished one major thing that it set out to do, and now it's breaking down the pro game's heretofore good relations with the colleges."

Mandel, saying he was compelled to speak "for the protection of our players" listed three instances in which he said the new circuit had not lived up to widely publicized promises.

"First, they said the league would operate in 1945—war or no war," the Detroit owner recalled. "It didn't."

"Then the league passed two resolutions, neither of which it has followed," Mandel continued.

"One resolution was that it would not employ a coach or player under contract in the National League. Immediately Jimmy Crowley, who had signed to coach Boston, was made commissioner of the new conference."

"The other was a resolution that the new league would not sign any player with college eligibility remaining. It already claims to have under contract four players from the Detroit draft list. Otto Graham and Alex Kapner of Northwestern, Gene Fekete of Ohio State and Chuck Jacoby of Indiana—all of whom have further college eligibility."

"Now John L. Keeshin, holder of the Chicago franchise in the new league, claims to have signed Hirsch, a fact loudly denied by Harry Stuhldreher, coach at Wisconsin where Hirsch can play further college ball."

Mandel said the new circuit's "about-face" activities have given pro football a black eye in its dealings with the colleges.

"Personally, I'm not convinced yet that the new league ever will operate," Mandel concluded.

"In the meantime, players coming out of service with All-America contracts can't play college ball and can't play with us. It simply leaves them out in the cold and they ought to know it."

Mandel used the case of Graham as significant. The former Northwestern back now discharged from the navy is under what its owner called a "when, as and if" contract to the Cleveland All-America club.

Because the All-America league isn't operating he can't play there. Because of his pro commitments he can't return to Northwestern. And because he intends to play in the other league when it operates, Mandel declined to sign him to any "temporary" contract to play for the Lions, who gained NFL rights to him in the collegiate draft.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

The two Delta county football teams that are bidding for upper peninsula honors, Escanaba and Gladstone, reach the critical points in their schedules this week, with the Eskymos playing at Iron Mountain and the Braves entertaining Ishpeming. Both teams, of course, are anxious to come down to the final game, the traditional Escanaba-Gladstone clash, with unbeaten records so that the peninsula championship, or a substantial part of it, at least, will be at stake in that meeting.

The Eskymos face the toughest assignment. There is obvious recognition of the fact that Iron Mountain will be laying for Escanaba Saturday and that Coach Ruwitch's team will have to attain the heights reached in the Menominee game to turn back the Mountaineers. The Eskymos possess what it takes to beat the Mountaineers but they will have to give everything they have to do it. There is no room at all for overconfidence or slackening of the pace. The Mountaineers are convinced that they can puncture the Eskymos' balloon. Undoubtedly they will be the toughest foe to date.

Ishpeming, the Braves' opponent of the week, have a less imposing record but the Hematites are dangerous, nevertheless. They actually outscored unbeaten Ne-gaunee in the first half of their game recently only to stumble in the second half during which they finally became victims of a rout. Gladstone should win this game, handsily enough if the Braves produce anything like the high quality of football that has characterized their play throughout the season. Next week, in the final game before the annual Escanaba battle the Braves play at Stephenson.

Hancock, five times winner without defeat, may be wiped off the list of unbeaten teams this week. Hancock plays at Calumet and the general consensus of opinion is that Calumet is the class of the Copper Country, despite the fact that Calumet has been thrice defeated by non-Copper Country opponents. In fact, of the four unbeaten teams in the peninsula Hancock is the only one that is not the favorite in its game of the week. Negaunee, topping the list with six victories and no defeats, should find Marquette no problem at all in their game tonight under the lights at Negaunee.

Other games scheduled for tonight that will bear heavily on upper peninsula football rankings are Kingsford at Stambaugh and Menominee at Gladstone. Favorites are Stambaugh, whose only loss was a 7-6 setback to Negaunee, and Ironwood, whose only defeat to date was the 21-0 drubbing at Escanaba. Coach Leo Brunelle's Stephenson team will play at Peshigo tonight. The Saturday schedule includes Iron River at L'Anse, Sault Ste. Marie at Manistique, Houghton at Lake Linden, Munising at Newberry, and Hurley at Bessemer. Norway, St. Joseph, and Ontonagon are idle and Wakefield has completed an abbreviated schedule.

Baltimore, Oct. 18 (AP)—The second case involving stimulants administered to a winning horse at Laurel race track was disclosed tonight by the Maryland Racing Commission.
